Don and I served in the military together and maintain our relationship afterwards. I will miss our life's conversations, debates, and around the town car rides. May the family find the inner strength to cast all of your sorrows upon God and he will comfort you in the days ahead. "Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted (Matthew 5:4)".

*To the family my sincerest condolences. Donald taught me how to be an altar boy, get through Catholic High, and the first year of college at the University. He always gave me the time and wisdom, never about himself but how I could survive my fears and be successful. He was giving, generous, and a man of integrity. He will be missed but never forgotten, in God's bosom he rests with all the angels and saints. Thank you for what you gave to this world. God Bless the Alzheimer Family.
